Feel the heartbeat of Mother Earth and the Native American people as you listen to the traditional drum and song of the "Yellow Moon Singers." Watch demonstrations of traditional and contemporary Native American dancing to the beats of the drum. Hear stories and songs of the Tunica people as presented and preserved by the "Tunica-Biloxi Singers and Legend Keepers." As you watch native craftsmen hand-make moccasins, shawls, and other pieces of dance regalia, learn about the significance and history of this attire. Learn how these performers preserve language, history, spirituality and tradition through their music, dancing, and dance attire while carrying on customs that have been passed down through generations.
